

Who We Are

Background

PEPÁKĒN HÁUTW means “Blossoming Place” in SENĆOŦEN, the language of the WSÁNEĆ peoples. PEPÁKĒN HÁUTW is the name of our native plant nursery & garden, where we have fun growing healthy and traditional foods together with the ŁÁU,WELNEW Tribal School students. We also propagate and grow beautiful native plants for our ecosystem restoration projects in various locations throughout the WSÁNEĆ homelands.

Values

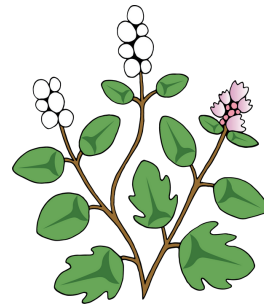

We are committed to supporting the next generation of land stewards. We aim to foster reciprocal relationships with the land through growing healthy & traditional foods and doing ecosystem restoration, while inviting volunteers and students to reflect on stewardship of sustainable food systems and native ecosystems.

Our work is based in the WSÁNEĆ homelands

We hope to share the importance of native plants and encourage people to grow and plant them whenever they can! We would love to inspire folks to start their own healthy food gardens and take an ecological approach to returning native plants to their schools, backyards, neighbourhoods, parks... and more!

Please check out our website for educational resources and teaching tools.

HÍSWĶE

www.pepakenhautw.com

Our Vision

Our vision is to heal the land, inspire young land stewards, and develop a strong model for ecosystem restoration employment opportunities. We hope to contribute to decolonization efforts through land based learning and community action.

Our Mission

Our mission is to provide participatory education opportunities about traditional and healthy food systems to contribute to the restoration and revitalization of native ecosystems in the WSÁNEĆ homelands and to promote food security and indigenous food sovereignty in the WSÁNEĆ community and beyond.

Our Work

→ Ecosystem Restoration

The land informs our work and our practice follows natural processes. We consider our approach 'Relational Restoration', emphasizing the myriad of relationships within ecosystems.

→ Education

We develop educational resources for those who wish to teach holistic land based learning. Check out our Tribal School Program and Learning on the Land pages on our website for more info!

→ Cultural Resurgence

Our work is a continuation of ancestral wisdom developed over thousands of years of living on the land. Art, language, and plant knowledge are all tied to working on the land and in community.

How you can help

DONATE

Thank you for your support! Please visit our website and donate at the Get Involved tab.

VOLUNTEER

We invite you to sign up on our website to be notified about future opportunities.

Contact Us

-  www.pepakenhautw.com
-  pepakenhautw@gmail.com
-  PEPÁKEN HÁUTW:
The Blossoming Place
-  @pepakenhautw

PEPÁKEN HÁUTW Foundation is a charitable non-profit organization. We truly appreciate your generous donations. Your support goes towards cultural revitalization in a land based context, training new land stewards, and promoting the importance of native plants and ecosystems everywhere.

